JENKINS IS RELEASED!

STATE DEPARTMENT HEARS GRATIFYING NEWS WHILE WILSON AND FALLS CONFER

Will Tend To Ease Strained Relations With The Mexicans

Illness of President Kept The Senate From Acting Hastily On War With Old Mexico

CARRANZA REPLY NOT RECEIVEE

By United Press

BULLETIN. WASHINGTON, D. C.—3:30 P. M.—William O. Jenkins, American Consular Agent has been released from the Mexican prison at Puebla, the State Department announced this afternoon. Notification of his release was sent to the State Department by the American Embassy at Mexico City today.

The release of Jenkins foreshadows a reply from Carranza agreeing to the requests of the United States and it is expected to ease the strained relations existing between the two countries.

The State Department received the news of the release of Jenkins while Senator Falls and Hitchcock were at the White House to lay the Mexican situation before President Wilson.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 President Wilson's cabinet adjourned today after 2 1-2 hours discussion of the Mexican situation, the coal situation and the railroads.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—A meeting of President Wilson's cabinet was called for at eleven o'clock today. The regular weekly meeting which was scheduled for Tuesday was not held but it was called for today. Secretary Lansing upon his arrival for the meeting said he thought the general railrad situation might be discussed but could not say whether the Mexican situation would be brought up. That the coal strike situation would be considered by the cabinet was indicated when Fuel Administrator Garfield arrived for the meeting.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Senator Hitchcock and Senator Falls will confer with President Wilson late this afternoon with regard to the Mexican situation, it was announced at the White House today. Hitchcock and Falls compose the sub-committee of the foreign relations committee and will confer with the President in order to get his views on Fall's resolution urging breaking off of diplomatic relations with Mexico. Hitchcock telephoned to Secretary Tumulty late last night relative to the interview. Hitchcock said that an interview Monday would do and that the interview was set for this afternoon is an indication that President Wilson is eager to settle the Mexican situation at once and also shows his improved condition according to White House officials.

ELK NOT PLAYFUL HUNTERS DECLARE

Before J. Fred Weaver started for Gordon Camp to put in his days at hunting, he vowed that he would return with a deer, and so he did. Ever since Fred was a little lad in school, and addressed his first note to "dear Mabel," he has been strong on this deer hunting game. After he had put in his time at Gordon Camp and had seen no deers of the antlered variety, he was up against it to know just what to do to return with a deer, but the game warden came to his rescue. Of course this was not at all to his liking, but there were none of the dearest kind of deare to bring in, so he boarded the truck containing the carcass of a dear little deer, which some brutal hunter lawless hunter had brought to an untimely death with a deadly charge of lead. But he returned with a deer, believing that is was better to come with an illegal one than with none at all.

Henry Hoover reports a four point buck being killed at the Camp Atwater wigwam, Wednesday.

Many Fair raising tales are being told of encounters hunters are having with the elk which roam the mountains a few miles from Cherry Mabel. Many people discount these stories, but there is evidence aplenty that the bull elk are not as playful as kittens. There is no likelyhood that the bull elk will tackle any man who leaves them alone, but in his habits the bull elk is not unlike the bull of the bovine family, and often when he comes in contact with such a homely specimen as mankind, in general, he throws his head to the ground, snorts, bawls and paws great holes in the ground with his sharp cloven hoofs. So when you see an elk, unless he wears an emblem, let him alone.

ELECTRIC SIGNS MAY BE BANNED IN CLEARFIELD

In conformity with the rules issued by Fire Admiral Jenkins H. A. Gearhold, it is probable that Clearfield will be compelled to cut down on the amount of power now being used. This action is general, but will probably be enforced in Clearfield, despite the fact that the supply of coal here is not so restricted as in other places. It will be remembered by the orders printed in the papers the public utility companies were to curtail the furnishing of current for advertising signs and displays of all kinds. The Fire Admiral is in receipt of letter in Clearfield. It is probable that the orders will be made and that will be in force in the meantime.

INSANE MAN KILLS THREE OF FAMILY WOUNDS BALANCE

PASSAIC N. J., Dec. 5. Two little girl and a boy, with their heads hacked by an axe, lay unconscious for hours 48 hours beside the dead bodies of their mother, father and sister. One of the girls recovered consciousness to drag herself to call a neighbor. The neighbor, who arrived at the home of M. P. Stro[illegible] with an axe, other [illegible] was the telephone message received by Dr John H. Howard Carlisle late yesterday, "This is Nina Strong will you please come over to our house right away? Everybody is sick here". Nina was not sufficiently recovered to give an account of the tragedy.

Strong called at the house of his lawyer at eight o'clock Tuesday evening, and it is believed he planned the murder during the day. Feigning sleep when his wife entered, he is believed to have arisen and chloroformed his victims, as a empty bottle was found in the bath room. He wielded the axe with great force and is believed to have hit each victim first with the sharp end of the axe, and the children with the blunt end. The three children will never recover completely their senses. After Strong believed that the family was all dead he went to the bath room and slashed his throat. He died from a serious head wound.

MORROW, HEAD OF NATIONAL COAL ASSOCIATION DECLARES IT IS A CONSERVATIVE ESTIMATE

MISSOURI TAKEN OVER ITS MINES

By RALPH S. COUCH
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—More than one million workers are idle or employed part time as the result of the coal shortage, it was estimated officially today. The estimate was described as "extremely conservative" by J. P. A. Morrow, vice President of the National Coal Association. Exact figures are impossible to obtain as in some sections of the country Railroad administration reports show that whole communities are idle.

The wage loss is estimated at more than two million dollars daily. The loss to employers and business men is beyond estimate. Thousands of those affected are women depending for employment on mercantile establishments.

Chicago business places started yesterday on a 6 1-2 hour basis. More than 400,000 are affected in this district.

Railroad workers were affected by the strike according to heads of the four big brotherhoods. Trainmen began to feel the strike through curtailment of the train service, declared W. G. Lee, of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

At Gary, Indiana, thousands of steel workers were laid off.

Missouri coal mines were taken over by the state today by a proclamation of Governor Gardner.

UNION OFFICERS LOOK TO WORKERS FOR GUIDANCE

The contempt proceedings instituted by the government is the lessor of the troubles of the United Mine Worker officials these days. The problem of keeping his ranks intact is bothering the official. Up to this time he has been undecided as to the proper course to pursue.

On the other hand there is the government, backed up by the public, demanding that the official give his sanction to the acceptance of the fourteen per cent. offer. Arrayed with the government and the public is that element among the workers who would go to work in a minute if the officials gave them any encouragement to do so and who are likely to make a break of their own record if things are not adjusted pretty soon.

On the other hand, the official knows that the radical element controls a majority of the votes at the district and national elections and he fears that his acceptance of the government offer or his advice to accept it will be a factor at the next election.

At the recent meeting of officials held in Clearfield, no doubt this very subject was discussed from both angles. Naturally under the federal injunction they could take no official action amounting to rejection of the offer but had they chosen to accept full responsibility they could have taken the initiative in assenting to going to work.

The officers of this organization are just as anxious to please their constituents as any public office holder, perhaps more so, so it remains for the individual miner to let his views be known to his officers. Daily the miner is losing wages. The daily wage loss in this district must amount to at least $200,000. This is his battle and if true democracy reigns in the organization it is for the man to dictate what his officers shall do. The miner has already lost in wages more than his increase will amount to in the next year.

The miner should be loyal to his organization but he should at the same time run his own organization. If he wants to work and is held back by his officers he will in time do the next best thing. Pride will for a time keep him from obeying the impulse to go to work and provide for his family and the desire to act with his fellows, a worthy attribute, will deter him from acting hastily. Later intimidation will be a factor but intimidation will cease when the majority gets to thinking as he does. This morning the DuBois Courier reports that many miners in that region are seeking other occupations. Grim necessity will force this condition and as necessity knows no law or rule there is an ever increasing danger that the ranks of the mine workers will be depleted and the fruits of years of toil, sacrifice and effort endangered. This is the last thing any friends of organized labor wants to happen. Let each mine worker seriously consider this problem, talk it over with his fellows and indicate to his officers his views and his desires.

NOTICE MINISTERS

Saturday issue of The Prgress should carry notices of every church service in the city. The Progress is glad to carry such notices and again extends an invitation to the various churches of Clearfield to use The Progress as a publicity medium to the extent of announcing their Sunday services.

However, in order to do this, it will be necessary to follow certain rules. First, do not telephone your notices to the office. Second, they must be in our hands before nine o'clock Saturday morning or we cannot insert them.

We know that you will understand why we have to make these rules. Our time is all taken up. We want to help though and will furnish the labor of setting the type, the paper and the ink, etc., if you will meet us half way and get us the copy before nine o'clock. Oh, yes, write it out legiby, please, before you hand it in.

The King's business is the only business in Clearveld that we will advertise free. Take advantage of it.

A Freak of Fortune

By RALPH HAMILTON

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

"A penny for your thoughts, Wilbur," spoke pretty Erna Barton, and the somber face of Wilbur Gray, evidencing a mood of profound abstraction, brightened up magically, as it always did when this charming girl was beside him.

"Am I sure of the compensation offered?" challenged the young man lightly.

"There!" and Erna pressed an old battered copper coin into his hand. "Now confess, sir! Not only do I reward you with the conventional penny, but I present what may be a rare coin."

"So rare and old that its inscription is fairly undecipherable," replied Wilbur. "It seems to wear the green and grime of the centuries."

"I found it among a lot of relics of the olden, olden time that poor dear grandfather so cherished," explained Erna. "He also left some old pieces of delftware and ancient firearms.

"I shall keep the coin always, Erna," said Wilbur. "I hope it will be a guardian of good fortune."

"But what about the pay?" inquired Erna, archly. "I bought your thoughts—what were they?"

"Well, Erna," answered Wilbur, his glance softening and replete with sentiment, "I was thinking how dearly I loved you when I came home for the holiday vacation."

Erna's fair golden head dropped, but she drew nearer to him on the porch seat.

"And how much more I love you now," continued Wilbur seriously. "And when I come home next summer I hope I can add to it all by asking you to become my wife."

"I hope so," said Erna spontaneously, lifting her clear, honest eyes to meet his own, "but you must not think of that until your are sure that little Eva and I will not be a burden to you. All grandfather has left us is this little place, and some money is owing on that."

"I hope to be able to clear up everything and more," spoke Wilbur confidently. "Send your sweet, best wishes after me when I go back to work in the city, that I may find some way of earning more money than I do now."

"Be patient, dear," soothed Erna encouragingly. "Our ship is sure to come in some day, and it will be the more precious for the waiting."

Wilbur was employed in a brokerage office. Opportunity came to him through this business connection of making money, but he had no capital to invest. About two weeks after his return to the city a close friend, Paul Warfield, dropped into his room at his boarding house.

"I wish I had a thousand dollars, Wilbur," he said. "I've got a tip that would make me a fortune in a month."

Wilbur smiled incredulously. He had always kept away from tips and speculative propositions generally, and, besides he realized that Warfield was a good deal of a dreamer.

"Don't laugh at me, Wilbur," said Paul. "This is no wild fantasy, but a sure thing."

"Some stock on the boom, eh?"

"Nothing of the sort. It's a sure prospect, with a sound, substantial basis. It's land—land that never decays, never burns up, never wears out. Wall street can't play with it."

"Land with a gold mine on it, I suppose?" intimated Wilbur guzzlingly.

"No, Wilbur, it's an eight-acre strip and last week on the next forty a prospector made a strike. He sealed the well, and is trying to keep his discovery quiet until he can interest some capitalist to buy up all the other land in the vicinity. The very choicest is the piece I have a chance to buy. My old aunt is willing to invest half of the money required. Couldn't you raise the other five hundred in some way, Wilbur?"

"Oh, yes, sure; certainly," decided Wilbur. "See" and he emptied his pocket of the few coins it held. "I might buy a hundredth part of an acre" and just then one of the coins slipped through his careless fingers and rolled against Paul's foot.

The latter picked it up to restore it to its owner. Then with a profound start and a whistle "Hello! Where did you ever get that?" He held close to the light the copper penny Erna Barton had given to Wilbur. He sniffed it, took out a magnifying glass and added: "Say, did you know that you have a treasure?"

"What do you mean?" questioned Wilbur.

"Why, that this is a Connecticut piece of the period of King Stephen, probably one of the rarest coins in the world centuries old. Will you let me take it to an old collector I know? I'll be back in an hour."

The hour was just up when Paul excited and breathless returned. "One of the rare ones, I knew," he fairly shrieked. "The collector is a Britisher and I have an offer of six hundred dollars."

"Take it!" cried Wilbur jubilantly. "And now I've made dollars of it for your wonderful speculation."

Wilbur learned not just as Paul had predicted. There was a later division of twenty thousand dollars' profits, and Wilbur Gray went back to his native village to make Erna Barton the happiest girl in the world.

A bee can fly much faster than a bird.

PRESBYTERIAN NEW ERA MOVEMENT FULLY EXPLAINED

Ninety two men of the Presbyterian church of Clearfield gathered around the banquet board in the dining parlor of the church last evening to hear more about the New Era program of the Presbyterian Church of America. The ladies of the church had prepared a sumptous repast, to which all did justice. At the conclusion of the dinner, Dr. E. C. Reeve, the pastor, introduced Dr. Selden Haines, a Princeton classmate of Dr. Reeve, who is in charge of the New Era Movement in this district. For about one hour Dr. Haines spoke clearly and convincingly on the present day situation of the church of Christ in general, and the Presbyterian church in particular, emphasizing the need of old time Christian united service. Stress was laid on organization of the members of the church, rather than upon finances. It is planned to organize a New Era movement within each individual church, in order to carry out the New Era program. The New Era program is a lengthy one and exacting in its demands, nevertheless it is one that is within the reach of every Presbyterian church, if they will but apply the system to themselves. A fuller exposition of the plan will be made in The Progress at a later date.

Be Prepared For Influenza

CUT THIS OUT

Many medical men say we will probably have another epidemic this fall.

It is all hope and pray we will But at the same time let us be well prepared.

The flu as it is called usually starts with a cold and tightness in the chest.

If you even suspect there is a chance that you are getting influenza, take a good dose of laxative tea, such as Dr. Carter's K. and B. Tea or Celery King and send to your physician. While you are waiting for the doctor rub Begy's Mustarine on throat and chest.

Rub it on freely and never mind if it does feel good and hot, it cannot blister even the tenderest skin.

But don't stop at throat and chest: get some one to rub this enemy of inflammation over your entire back and especially between the shoulder blades.

This is one of the most sensible precautions you can take against pneumonia, which often quickly follows the flu and is just what the doctor tries hard to sidetrack.

You can get Begy's Mustarine for 20 and 60 cents in yellow boxes all ready for use at any drug store.

Remember it is made of real yellow mustard. Use it for sore throat, coughs, chest colds, pleurisy, bronchitis, lumbago and all aches and pains.

Glass Of Salts Cleans Kidneys

If your back is aching or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water and eat less meat.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any phammacist abtu four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinkink, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal when it burns, leaves behind incombustible ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becmes food for the millions of bacterio which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomainelike poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before breakfast each morning drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the bowels the prebious days poisons and toxins, and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure, and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, chis, billiusoness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

LIFT OFF CORNS WITH FINGERS

Few Drops of "Freezone," Then Corns Lift Off—No Pain!

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs so little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon any corn or callus. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callus right off with fingers. Truly!

FARM PRODUCTS SHOW TO BE HELD AT HARRISBURG

Pennsylvania's fourth and greatest Farm Products show will be held in Harrisburg from January 20 to 23, inclusive.

This will bring together farmers and others interested in agricultural pursuits from every part of the state.

The exhibits will consist of the best that the Pennsylvania farm, orchard and garden will produce. There will be on exhibition the latest improved farm machinery and devices for expediting farm work.

Eleven sections of agricultural meetings will be run simultaneously. All phases of farm life will be discussed.

These meetings afford an opportunity to meet farmers, stock raisers, fruit growers and so on from every part of the state. The men that attend these meetings are the wide-awake and practical ones. To meet these fellows and learn something of their methods and success is an inspiration that any farmer can ill afford to miss.

There will be plenty to see and learn that will pay any farmer well to attend these meetings and study the exhibits.

Special arrangements are being made for reduced railroad rates from all points in Pennsylvania to Harrisburg during this period.

Easy To Darken Your Grey Hair

Try this! Brush Sage Tea and Sulphur Compound Through Your hair, taking one strand at a time

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is a mussy and troublesome. At little cost you can use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeths Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning oil gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeths Sage and Sulphur compound.

A Perfect Arm.

The proportions of the perfect arm in a woman of about 5 feet 5 inches are as follows: The circumference of the upper arm should be about 12 inches; that of the fore arm 9 inches and of the wrist 6 inches. The upper arm should be somewhat shorter than the forearm.

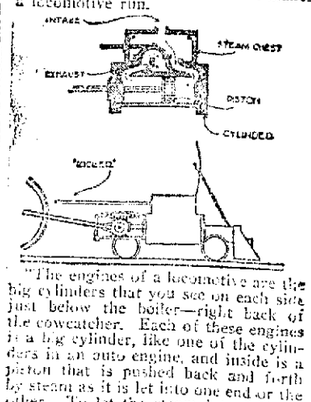
"Kickers" On a Locomotive

BY GRANT M. HYDE

"What are those 'kickers' on the side of the drive wheels of a railroad locomotive, Dad—those rods that kick up and down outside the big, heavy driving rod?"

"They are part of the valve-mechanism that opens and closes the valves to let steam into the cylinders. To understand them, you must know what makes a locomotive run.



"The engines of a locomotive are the big cylinders that you see on each side just below the boiler—right back of the cowcatcher. Each of these engines is a big cylinder, like one of the cylinders in an auto engine, and inside is a piston that is pushed back and forth by steam as it is let into one end or the other. To let the steam into one end and then into the other—back and forth—there is a system of valves just above the cylinder. When the engineer opens the throttle, the steam goes through the valve that is open, and pushes the piston one way; then that valve closes, the other opens, and the steam pushes the piston back.

"A piston rod, working through the end of the cylinder, and the heavy drive rods cause the big drive wheels to turn as the piston is pushed back and forth. The two engines on each side of the locomotive work together because the drive wheels are fastened solidly to their axles and one cannot turn without the other. The escaping steam puffs out through the smokestack and you can picture the moving pistons by counting the puffs—four puffs for each time the wheels go around since each of the two engines puffs twice to turn the wheels once—and they do not work together.

"On old-fashioned engines you could not see the rods that opened and closed the steam valves for they were underneath out of sight. A new system of valve mechanism, adopted about a dozen years ago, consists of rods fastened to the outside of the driving wheels, and these are the 'kickers' that you see moving up and down.

"If it is about 20 feet around a locomotive drive wheel and that much distance is covered during four puffs, can you figure the number puffs per mile?"

Around the Garage

BY J. H. MILLAR

"We don't want any boys around my garage," growled Mr. Tompkins of the Standard Motor Company. "They are just as likely as not to run one of the cars away or take off half the engine to see what the other half looks like."

"What boy did you say did that?" inquired Mr. Peyton as he stepped into his seven-passenger machine.

"None, we never gave one a chance."

Perhaps Mr. Tompkins was right and again perhaps he wasn't. Nevertheless, there are a whole lot of boys—the boys that will someday be the engineers and managers of the country's industries—who know much more about engines, mechanics, and motors, than the very men who own and drive the cars. Such boys are the ones who should look for work "Around the Garage."

Different Things to Do

It may be a business of washing regularly the machines in the different private garages of the neighborhood; it may be keeping the garages in order; it may be tending to the gasoline, oil and spare parts; there is plenty to be done. Such jobs make a boy a friend of a car so that before long he becomes competent to make minor repairs and has gradually learn about the motor.

What One Fellow Did

Mr. Peyton, the man who was not skeptical about boys, had tried one. Harry Jackson lived on a side street a few blocks back from the Peyton residence. Two summers before, when on warm evenings Mr. Peyton would be tinkering around the garage, Harry could saunter up the alley and stand with his hands in his pockets watching. After a while he became better acquainted. He helped wash or dust the machine, fill the radiator, and do other odd jobs just for the fun of it.

The next summer Harry was employed as handy man. After school started he still kept the job. He had to keep it, because he had become such a valuable help that Mr. Peyton couldn't do without him. He saved many dollars in garage bills.

These frosty days are days when there is much to do around a garage. Look for it!

Sunrise.

She struggled to a certain hilltop and saw before her the silent inflooding of the day. Out of the east it welled and whitened; the darkness trembled into light; and the stars were extinguished like the street lamps of a human city. The whiteness brightened into silver, the silver warmed to gold, the gold kindled into pure and living fire; and the face of the east was barred with elemental scarlet.—R. L. Stevenson.

CHICAGO A GENERAL FAVORITE FOR REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec 4—The time and place of the Republican national convention will be fixed at the meeting of the Republican National committee to be held here next Wednesday. San Francisco, Minneapolis, and St. Louis are among the cities contesting for the honor of being the host of the convention. A preliminary canvass of the committee, however shows a strong preference for Chicago, where the convention has met many times in the past, where ample hotel accommodations are to be had and where, on account of its central location, delegates from all parts of the country find that it is the most acceptable for convention purposes.

It has been customary for the Republicans to fix the time and place of their convention without regard to the action of the Democrats. And with regards to the coming gathering there will be no exception to the rule, for the Democrats will not make their choice until a month after the Republicans have decided upon the time and place for holding their convention.

The Republicans have held sixteen national convention, and half of these have been held in Chicago. The Windy City has been the scene of the last four. Of the Democratic national conventions four have been held in Chicago.

Although a strong favorite as a convention city Chicago cannot be said to have brought luck to the candidates nominated there. Of the Republican candidates nominated in Chicago, Lincoln and Garfield were assassinated, Blaine died a disappointed if not a heartbroken man, and Taft was defeated for his second term.

Sentimentally, however, it is regarded as eminently fitting that Chicago should be the meeting place of the Republican national conventions, for it was within a stone's throw of the Western metropolis that the party was given birth, in 1854. And it was in Chicago that the Republicans named their first successful national ticket, with Abraham Lincoln as the standard bearer.

Politics had much to do with the selection of Chicago as the convention city in 1860. At that time the city could lay no claim to pre-eminence on account of size, as it stood only ninth on the roll of the country's cities in population. Not only was New York the only city which now leads it, ahead of it sixty years ago, but Philadelphia Brooklyn, St. Louis, Boston, Baltimore, New Orleans and Cincinnati stood higher in the scale.

But Illinois, which had been Democratic from the beginning along to that time in presidential canvasses, was deemed to be necessary for the Republicans if they were to win, and, moreover, that State had a very prominent aspirant for the nomination, Lincoln who as it turned out, carried the convention. The result of the election, however, showed that the Republicans had figured wisely when they had put Illinois in the list of doubtful states. Even with the general prevalence of Republican influences throughout the north in that year, Illinois' favorite son, Lincoln, carried the state by only 12,000 as against its other illustrious son, Douglas.

Politics is not likely to cut much figure in the selection of the Republican convention city for next year. If Chicago is chosen, as now appears to be most probable it will be because the average Republican delegate likes Chicago for a June convention, because it is cool because it is big enough to breath in, because it is at the center of things and because he doesn't have to sleep with his boots out of the window.

December 6th to 13th

Golden Sun Week

FOR fifty-one weeks of the year you have bought whatever brand of coffee you preferred.

During this one week, from December 6th to 13th, your grocer asks you to try Golden Sun Coffee, the kind he prefers, and uses in his own home.

Your Grocer Recommends Golden Sun Coffee

—because he knows it is made right, packed tight and stays good.

The better retail grocers—thousands of them all over the country—have all joined to make this coming week a Coffee week—Golden Sun Coffee Week. Special displays of Golden Sun Coffee are being made in many of the stores in this community, and during the week, you will, no doubt, be invited to try at least a pound of this satisfying Coffee.

Your Money Back If You Want It

If, in the press of business, your grocer should fail to personally ask you to try Golden Sun this coming week, then kindly accept our invitation.

If you have never used Golden Sun or if you have not tried a package during the past year, do so, please, next week—Golden Sun Week.

We guarantee you will be pleased or your money will be returned to you.

Never Sold by Peddlers

Your regular grocer will supply you with Golden Sun. He has just received new stocks for Golden Sun Week, and is ready to serve you.

PRESIDENT ASKS LAWS TO SOLVE MANY PROBLEMS

Urges Extensive Program of Reconstruction in Message to Congress

Washington. — President Wilson's message to the Sixty-sixth Congress was as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I sincerely regret that I cannot be present at the opening of this session of the Congress. I am thus prevented from presenting, in as direct a way as I could wish, the many questions that are pressing for solution at this time. Happily, I have had the advantage of the advice of the heads of the several executive departments who have kept in close touch with affairs in their detail and whose thoughful recommendations I earnest second.

Rail Question Delayed.

In the matter of the railroads and the readjustment of their affairs growing out of Federal control, I shall take the liberty at a later date of addressing you.

I hope that Congress will bring to a conclusion at this session legislation looking to the establishment of a budget system. That there should be one single authority responsible for the making of all appropriations, and that appropriations should be made, not independently of each other, but with reference to one single comprehensive plan of expenditure properly related to the Nation's income, there can be no doubt. I believe the burden of preparing the budget must, in the nature of the case, if th work is to be properly done and responsibility concentrated instead of divided, rest upon the executive.

The budget so prepared should be submitted to and approved and amended by a single committee of each house of Congress, and no single appropriation should be made by the Congress, except such as may have been included in the budget prepared by the executive or added by the particular committee of Congress charged with the budget legislation.

Another and not less important aspect of the problem is the ascertainment with which the moneys appropriated are expended. Under existing law the only audit is for the purpose of ascertaining whether expenditures have been lawfully made within the appropriation. No one is authorized or equipped to ascertain whether the money has been spent wisely, economically and effectively. The auditors should be highly trained officers with permanent tenure in the treasury department, free of obligations to or motives of consideration for this or any subsequent administration and authorized and empowered to examine into and make report upon the methods employed and the results obtained by the executive departments of the Government. Their reports should be made to the Congress and to the secretary of the treasury.

Tax Question Urgent.

I trust that the Congress will give its immediate consideration to the problem of future taxation. Simplification of the income and profits taxes has become an immediate necessity. These taxes performed indispensable service during the war. They must, however, be simplified, not only to save the taxpayer inconvenience and expense, but in order that his liability may be made certain and definite.

With reference to the details of the revenue law, the secretary of the treasury and the commissioner of internal revenue will lay before you for your consideration certain amendments necessary or desirable in connection with the administration of the law—recommendations which have my approval and support. It is of the utmost importance that in dealing with this matter the present law should not be disturbed so far as regards taxes for the calendar year, 1920, payable in the calendar year 1921.

The congress might well consider whether the higher rates of income and profits taxes can in peace times be effectively productive of revenue, and whether they may not, on the contrary, be destructive of business activity and productive of waste and inefficiency. There is a point at which in peace times high rates of income and profits taxes discourage energy, remove the incentive to new enterprise, encourage extravagant expenditures and produce industrial stagnation with consequent unemployment and other attendant evils.

Difficult Problem.

The problem is not an easy one. A fundamental change has taken place with reference to the position of America in the world's affairs. The prejudice and passions engendered by decades of controversy between two schools of political and economic thought—the one believers in protection of American industries, the other believers in tariff for revenue only—must be subordinated to the single consideration of the public interest in the light of utterly changed conditions. Before the war America was heavily the debtor of the rest of the world and the interest payments she had to make to foreign countries on American securities held abroad, the expenditures of American travelers abroad and the ocean freight charges she had to pay to others, about balanced the value of her pre-war favorable balance of trade.

During the war America's exports have been greatly stimulated, and increased prices have increased their value. On the other hand, she has purchased a large proportion of the American securities previously held abroad, has loaned some $9,000,000,000 to foreign governments, and has built her own ships.

Our favorable balance of trade has thus been greatly increased, and Europe has been deprived of the means of meeting it heretofore existing. Europe can have only three ways of meeting the favorable balance of trade in peace times: By imports into this country of gold or of goods, or by establishing new credits. Europe is in no position at the present time to ship gold to us, nor could we contemplate large further imports of gold into this country without concern. The time has nearly passed for international governmental loans, and it will take time to develop in this country a market for foreign securities. Anything, therefore, which would tend to prevent foreign countries from settling for our exports by shipments of goods into this country could only have the effect of preventing them from paying for our exports, and therefore of preventing the exports from being made.

Trade Needs Outlet.

The productivity of the country greatly stimulated by the war must find an outlet by exports to foreign countries and any measures taken to prevent imports is inevitably evil. exports, force curtailment of production, load the business machinery of the country with surplus unsold products and produce industrial stagnation and unemployment. If we want to sell we must be prepared to buy. USE MARSHALL'S BEST FLOUR "NO OTHER LIKE IT"

Hello, everybody!

You know that old saying, "The cat came back?"

Well, Miss Individuality isn't a "cat" by any means. Folks who know me best say the nicest things about me. But I've come back again—like the cat in the story.

I'm back because I want to give you a message to remember me by, always. I've told you about the best Flour in the world—MARSHALL'S BEST Flour—and now I'm going to tell you how to make the most delicious White Bread out of it. Here's my own recipe:

To Make White Bread

Sift about three and a half pounds of MARSHALL'S BEST Flour. Add two teaspoons of salt. Mix thoroughly. Dissolve two cakes compressed yeast in one pint of lukewarm water. See that the water isn't hot. Pour the water and yeast over the flour, and make a moderately stiff dough. Knead thoroughly and set in a warm place to rise. When well risen mould into loaves. Let them rise, and then bake.

PLEASE NOTE—The recipe calls for MARSHALL'S BEST Flour. Of course, you can make bread from almost any old Flour, but not the delicious White Bread I'm telling you about. And you must be careful to follow the recipe in every detail, too. But if you do as I say, you'll get the finest, whitest, sweetest White Bread you ever tasted. Try it. Good-by!

business, if we will but take advantage of the opportunities that are ours for the asking. The recent war has ended our isolation and thrown upon us a great duty and responsibility.

The United States must share the expanding world market. The United States desires for itself only equal opportunity with the other nations of the world, and that through the process of friendly co-operation and fair competition the legitimate interests of the nations concerned may be successfully and equitably adjusted.

There are other matters of importance upon which I urged action at the last session of Congress which are still pressing for solution. I am sure it is not necessary for me again to remind you that there is one immediate and very practicable question resulting from the war which we should meet in the most liberal spirit. It is a matter of recognition and relief to our soldiers. I can do no better than to quote from my last message urging this very action:

Needs of Veterans.

"We must see to it that our soldiers are assisted in every practical way to find places for which they are fitted in the daily work of the country. This can be done by developing and maintaining upon an adequate scale the admirable organization created by the department of labor for placing men seeking work, and it can also be done, in at least one very great field, by creating new opportunities for individual enterprise. The secretary of the interior has pointed out the way by which returning soldiers may be helped to find and take up land in the hitherto undeveloped regions of the country the Federal government has already prepared or can readily prepare for cultivation and also on many of the cut over or neglected areas which lie within the limits of the older states; and I once more take the liberty of recommending very respectfully that his plans shall receive the immediate and substantial support of Congress."

In the matter of [illegible] I [illegible] to call your attention to the recommendations contained in my last message urging legislation with respect to the establishment of the chemical and dyestuffs industry in America.

"Among the industries to which special consideration should be given is that of the manufacture of dyestuffs and related chemicals. Our present dependence upon German sources for the war made the [illegible] trade a cause of great [illegible] disturbance. The close relation between the manufacture of dyestuffs on the one hand, and of explosives and poisonous gases, on the other, moreover, has given the industry an exceptional significance and value. Although the United States will gladly and unhesitatingly join in the program of international disarmament; it will, nevertheless, be a policy of obvious prudence to make certain of the successful maintenance of many strong and well equipped chemical plants. The German chemical industry, with which we will be brought into competition, was and may well be again, a thoroughly knit monopoly, capable of exercising a competition of a peculiarly insidious and dangerous kind."

Farmers' Work in War.

During the war the farmer performed a vital and willing service to the Nation. By materially increasing the production of his land, he supplied America and the allies with the increased amounts of food necessary to keep their immense armies in the field. He indispensably helped to win the war. But there is now scarcely less need for increasing the production of food and the necessaries of life. I ask the Congress to consider means of encouraging effort along these lines. The importance of doing everything possible to promote production along economical lines, to improve marketing and to make rural life more attractive and healthful is obvious.

I would urge approval of the plans already proposed to the Congress by the secretary of agriculture, to secure the essential facts required for the proper study of this question, through the proposed enlarged programs for farm management studies and crop estimates. I would urge also, a continuance of Federal participation in the building of good roads, under the terms of existing law and under the direction of present agencies; the need of further action on the part of the states and the Federal Government to preserve and develop our forest resources, especially through the practice of better forestry methods on private holdings and the extension of the publicly owned forests; better support for county schools and the more definite directing of their courses of study along lines related to rural problems; and full provision for sanitation in rural districts and the building up of adequate hospital and medical facilities in these localities.

Perhaps the way could be cleared for many of these desirable reforms by a fresh comprehensive survey made of rural conditions by a commission composed of representatives of the farmers and of the agricultural agencies responsible for leadership.

Remedies for Unrest.

I would call your attention to the widespread condition of political restlessness in our body politic. The causes of this unrest, while various and complicated, are superficial rather than deep seated. Broadly, they arise from or are connected with the failure on the part of our Government to arrive speedily at a just and permanent peace, permitting return to normal conditions, from the transfusion of radical theories from seething European centers, pending such delay, from heartless profiteering resulting in the increase in the cost of living, and, lastly, from the machinations of passionate and malevolent agitators. With the return to normal conditions this unrest will rapidly disappear. In the meantime it does much evil. It seems to me that in dealing with this situation Congress should not be impatient or drastic, but should seek rather to remove the causes.

It should endeavor to bring our country back speedily to a peace basis with ameliorated living conditions under minimum of restrictions upon personal liberty that is consistent with our reconstruction problems. And it should arm the Federal Government with power to deal in its criminal courts with those persons who by violent methods would abrogate our time-tested institutions.

With the free expression of opinion and with the advocacy of orderly political change, however fundamental, there must be no interference, but toward passion and malevolence tending to incite crime and insurrection, under guise of political evolution, there should be no leniency. Legislation to this end has been recommended by the attorney general and should be enacted. In this direct connection I would call your attention to my recommendations on August 8, pointing out legislative measures which would be effective in controlling and bringing down the present cost of living, which contributes so largely to this unrest. If the Government's campaign is to be effective, it is necessary that the other steps suggested should be acted on at once.

Food Control Urged

I renew and strongly urge the necessity of the extension of the present food control act to the period of time in which it shall remain in operation. The attorney general has submitted a bill providing for an extension of this act for a period of six months. As it now stands it is limited in operation to the period of the war and becomes inoperative until the formal proclamation of peace. It is imperative that it should be extended at once. The department of justice has built up extensive machinery for the purpose of enforcing its provisions; all of which must be abandoned upon the conclusion of peace unless the provisions of this act are extended.

During this period the Congress will have an opportunity to make similar permanent provisions and regulations with regard to all goods destined for interstate commerce and to exclude them from interstate shipment, if the requirements of the law are not complied with. Some such regulation is imperatively necessary. The abuses that have grown up in the manipulation of prices by the withholding of foodstuffs and other necessities of life cannot otherwise be effectively prevented. There can be no doubt of either the necessity or the legitimacy of such measures.

As I pointed out in my last message, publicity can accomplish a great deal in this campaign. The ablest of our Government must be clearly brought to the attention of the controlling public civic organization and state officials, who are in a position to lend their assistance to our efforts. You have made available funds with which to carry on this campaign, but there is no provision in the law authorizing the expenditure for the purpose of making the public fully informed about the efforts of the Government. Specific recommendation has been made by the attorney general in this regard. I would strongly urge upon its immediate adoption, as it constitutes one of the preliminary steps to this campaign.

I also renew my recommendation that the Congress pass a law regulating cold storage, as it is regulated, for example by the state of New Jersey which limits the time during which goods may be held in storage, prescribes the method of disposing of them, if kept beyond the permitted period, and requires that goods released from storage shall in all cases bear the date of their receipt. It would materially aid in the practicability of the law, for the purpose we now have in view, if it were also prescribed that all goods released from storage for interstate shipment should have plainly marked upon each package the actual or market price at which they went into storage. By this means the purchaser would always be able to learn what profits should in fair play and justice be the producer or the distributor.

Wheels Prices Marked.

I would also renew my recommendation that all goods destined for interstate commerce should in every case, where they form an appreciable part of the bale, be plainly marked with the price at which they left the hands of the producer.

We should formulate a law requiring a general license of all corporations engaged in interstate commerce and embodying in the license, or in the condition under which it is to be issued, specific regulations designed to secure competitive selling and prevent unconscionable profits in the method of marketing.

Such a law would afford a welcome opportunity to effect other much needed reforms in the business of interstate shipment and in the methods of corporations which are engaged in it; but for the moment I confine my recommendations to the object immediately in hand, which is to lower the cost of living.

No one who has observed the march of events in the last year can fail to note the absolute need of a definite program to bring about an improvement in the conditions of labor. There can be no settled conditions leading to increased production and a reduction in the cost of living if labor and capital are to be antagonists instead of partners.

Evils of Repression.

Sound thinking and an honest desire to serve the interests of the whole Nation, as distinguished from the interests of a class, must be applied to the solution of this great and pressing problem. The failure of other nations to consider this matter in a vigorous way has produced bitterness and jealousies and antagonisms, the food of radicalism.

The only way to keep men from agitating against grievances is to remove the grievances. An unwillingness even to discuss these matters produces only dissatisfaction and gives comfort to the extreme elements in our country, which endeavor to stir disturbances in order to provoke governments to embark upon a course of retaliation and repression.

The seed of revolution is repression. The remedy for these things must not be negative in character. It must be constructive. It must comprehend the general interest. The real antidote for the unrest which manifests itself is not suppression, but a deep consideration of the wrongs that beset our National life and the application of a remedy.

Industrial Democracy.

Congress has already shown its willingness to deal with these indus-

Will sell at auction seventeen building lots in the Second [illegible] Locust Street between Fourth and Fifth streets, Indiana, Pa.

Sale held in the dining room of the Indiana House, Philadelphia Sixth Streets at Three O'clock, P. M., Saturday, December 6, 1919.

Lots are good size all except one, have alley in rear, all have 6 inch sanitary sewer, natural gas, city electric lights, water and bell phones.

Title perfect. Good neighborhood. Natural drainage.

One block to graded school and high school. Two and one half to trolley. Four blocks to Normal school. Five blocks to Court. Eight churches and post office within five blocks.

Indiana is a substantial town. Growing rapidly. Witness the cent headquarters being erected by the Rochester and Pittsburgh Iron Co., costing four hundred thousand dollars, also Clearfield Coal Co. costing eighty thousand dollars, also the new theatre to cost one hundred thousand dollars. Also the one hundred thousand new school building.

Where can one find a better, cleaner, more wholesome or healthier to live and rear your children? Or where can one find a better when you retire from active business? One barber shop in Indiana Saturday two years ago shaved six men whose average age was seven years and ten months. They are living yet.

Indiana is free from fog, smoke and cinders. Has low tax rate, valuation is only $2,369,542.00.

The Normal school not only trains teachers, but has a business and a college preparatory department for both sexes. Also [illegible] for youngsters.

Indiana is only one-half the size it soon will be, and is only the size it ought to be considering its natural surrounding advantages. Has largest coal reserves in the state, mines well equipped with [illegible] switches and men who know how to mine, and market coal; shipping facilities; possibilities of gas; good local markets for the farmer.

Houses and building lots are abnormally scarce.

You look back with regret twenty years to what you could have bought in your town at low prices. Indiana now offers you a similar opportunity.

Buy land to build or for investment or speculation.

Lots are surveyed and staked and may be seen at any time.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and pale instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 25c.

trial wrongs by establishing the eight-hour day as the standard in every field of labor. It has sought to find a way to prevent child labor. It has served the whole country by leading the way in developing the means of preserving and safeguarding lives and health in dangerous industries.

It must now help in the difficult task of finding a method that will bring about a genuine democratization of industry, based upon the full recognition of the right of those who work in whatever rank, to participate in some organic way in every decision which directly affects their welfare. It is with this purpose in mind that I called a conference to meet in Washington on December 1, to consider these problems in all their broad aspects, with the idea of bringing about a better understanding between these two units.

The great unrest throughout the world, out of which has emerged a demand for an immediate consideration of the difficulties between capital and labor, bids us put our own house in order

Labor in Revolt.

Frankly, there can be no permanent and lasting settlement between capital and labor which does not recognize the fundamental concepts for which labor has been struggling through the years. The whole world gave its recognition and endorsement of these fundamental purposes in the League of Nations. The statesmen gathered at Versailles recognized the fact that world stability could not be had by reverting to industrial standards and conditions against which the average workman of the world had revolted. It is, therefore, the task of the statesmen of this new day of change and readjustment to recognize world conditions and to seek to bring about, through legislation, conditions that will mean the ending of age-long antagonism between capital and labor, and that will hopefully lead to the building up of a comradeship which will result not only in greater contentment among the mass of workmen but also bring about a greater production and a greater prosperity to business itself.

To analyze the particulars in the demands of labor is to admit the justice of their complaint in many matters that lie at their basis. The workman demands an adequate wage, sufficient to permit him to live in comfort, unhampered by the fear of poverty and want in his old age. He demands the right to live and the right to work amid sanitary surroundings, both in home and in workshop, surroundings that develop and do not retard his own health and well-being, and the right to provide for his children's wants in the matter of health and education. In other words, it is his desire to make the conditions of his life and the lives of those dear to him tolerable and easy to bear.

Cites Nations League.

The establishment of the principles regarding labor laid down in the covenan of the League of Nations offers us the way of industrial peace and conciliation. No other road lies open to us. Not to pursue this one is longer to invite enmities, bitterness and antagonisms which in the end only lead to industrial and social disaster. The unwilling worker is not a profitable servant. An employe whose industrial life is hedged about by hard and unjust conditions, which he did not create and over which he has no control, lacks that fine spirit of enthusiasm and volunteer effort which are the necessary ingredients of a great producing entity.

Let us be frank about this solemn matter. The evidences of world-wide unrest which manifest themselves throughout the world bid us pause and consider the means to be found to stop the spread of this contagious thing before it saps the very vitality of the Nation itself. Do we gain strength by withholding the remedy? Is it not the business of the statesman to treat human ills with that which meets on every hand as evidences of an economic disorder and to apply constructive remedies wherever necessary, being sure that, in the application of the remedy, we touch not the vital tissues of our industrial and economic life? There can be no recession of the tide of unrest until constructive instrumentalities are set up to stem that tide.

Collective Bargaining

Governments must recognize the right of men collectively to bargain collectively. Human objects that have at their base the mutual protection and welfare of those engaged in all industries. Labor must not be longer treated as a commodity. It must be regarded as the activity of human beings, possessed of deep yearnings and desires. The business man gives his best thought to the repair and replenishment of his machinery, so that its usefulness will not be impaired and its power to produce may always be at its height and kept in full vigor and motion. No less regard ought to be paid to the human machine, which after all propels the machinery of the world and is the great dynamic force that lies back of all industry and progress. Return to the old standards of wage and industry in employment are unthinkable. The terrible tragedy of war which has just ended and which has brought the world to the verge of chaos and disaster would be in vain if there should ensue a return to the conditions of the past. Europe itself, whence has come the unrest which now holds the world at bay, is an example of standpatism in these vital human matters which America might well accept as an example, not to be followed but studiously to be avoided. Europe made labor the differential, and the price of it all is enmity and antagonism and prostrated industry. The right of labor to live in peace and comfort must be recognized by governments and America should be the first to lay the foundation stones upon which industrial peace shall be built.

Labor not only is entitled to an adequate wage, but capital should receive a reasonable return upon its investment and is entitled to protection at the hands of the Government in every emergency. No government worthy of the name can "play" these elements against each other, for there is a mutuality of interest between them which the Government must seek to express and to safeguard at all cost.

Right to Strike.

The right of individuals to strike is inviolate and ought not to be interfered with by a process of Government, but there is a predominant right and that is the right of the Government to protect all of its people and to assert its power and majesty against the challenge of any class. The Government, when it asserts that right, seeks not to antagonize a class but simply to defend the right of the whole people as against the irreparable harm and injury that might be done by the attempt by any class to usurp a power that only Government itself has a right to exercise as a protection to all.

In the matter of international disputes which have led to war, statesmen have sought to set up as a remedy arbitration for war. Does this not point the way for the settlement of industrial disputes by the establishment of a tribunal fair and just alike to all, which will settle industrial disputes which in the past have led to war and disaster? America witnessing the evil consequences which have followed out of such disputes between the contending forces must not admit itself impotent to deal with these matters by means of peaceful processes. Surely, there must be some method of bringing together in a council of peace and amity these two great interests, out of which will come a happier day of peace and cooperation, a day that will make for more comfort and happiness in living and a more tolerable condition among all classes of men. Certainly human intelligence can devise some acceptable tribunal for adjusting the differences between capital and labor.

Nation's Hour of Trial.

This is the hour of test and trial for America. By her prowess and strength, and the indomitable courage of her soldiers she demonstrated her power to vindicate on foreign battle fields her conception of liberty and justice. Let no influence as a mediator between capital and labor be weakened and her own failure to settle matters of purely domestic concern be proclaimed to the world. There are those in this country who threaten direct action to force their will upon a majority. Russia today, with its blood and terror, is a painful object lesson of the power of minorities. It makes little difference what minority it is; whether capital or labor, or any other class; no sort of privilege will ever be permitted to dominate this country. We are a partnership or nothing that is worth while. We are a democracy where the majority are the master, or all the hopes and purposes of the men who formed this Government have been defeated and forgotten.

In America there is but one way in which reforms can be achieved and the relief sought by classes obtained, and that is through the orderly processes of representative government. Those who would propose any other method of reform are enemies of this country. America will not be daunted by them nor lose her composure or calmness in these distressing times. We can afford in the midst of this day of passion and unrest, to be self-contained and sure. The instrument of all reform in America is the straight road of justice to all classes and conditions of men. Men have but to follow this road to realize the full fruition of their objects and purposes. Let those beware who would take the shorter road of disorder and revolution. The right road is the road of justice and orderly process.

I saw it in The Progress.

JENKINS IS RELEASED!

STATE DEPARTMENT HEARS GRATIFYING NEWS WHILE WILSON AND FALLS CONFER

Will Tend To Ease Strained Relations With The Mexicans

Illness of President Kept The Senate From Acting Hastily On War With Old Mexico

CARRANZA REPLY NOT RECEIVEE

By United Press

BULLETIN. WASHINGTON, D. C.—3:30 P. M.—William O. Jenkins, American Consular Agent has been released from the Mexican prison at Puebla, the State Department announced this afternoon. Notification of his release was sent to the State Department by the American Embassy at Mexico City today.

The release of Jenkins foreshadows a reply from Carranza agreeing to the requests of the United States and it is expected to ease the strained relations existing between the two countries.

The State Department received the news of the release of Jenkins while Senator Falls and Hitchcock were at the White House to lay the Mexican situation before President Wilson.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 President Wilson's cabinet adjourned today after 2 1-2 hours discussion of the Mexican situation, the coal situation and the railroads.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—A meeting of President Wilson's cabinet was called for at eleven o'clock today. The regular weekly meeting which was scheduled for Tuesday was not held but it was called for today. Secretary Lansing upon his arrival for the meeting said he thought the general railrad situation might be discussed but could not say whether the Mexican situation would be brought up. That the coal strike situation would be considered by the cabinet was indicated when Fuel Administrator Garfield arrived for the meeting.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Senator Hitchcock and Senator Falls will confer with President Wilson late this afternoon with regard to the Mexican situation, it was announced at the White House today. Hitchcock and Falls compose the sub-committee of the foreign relations committee and will confer with the President in order to get his views on Fall's resolution urging breaking off of diplomatic relations with Mexico. Hitchcock telephoned to Secretary Tumulty late last night relative to the interview. Hitchcock said that an interview Monday would do and that the interview was set for this afternoon is an indication that President Wilson is eager to settle the Mexican situation at once and also shows his improved condition according to White House officials.

ELK NOT PLAYFUL HUNTERS DECLARE

Before J. Fred Weaver started for Gordon Camp to put in his days at hunting, he vowed that he would return with a deer, and so he did. Ever since Fred was a little lad in school, and addressed his first note to "dear Mabel," he has been strong on this deer hunting game. After he had put in his time at Gordon Camp and had seen no deers of the antlered variety, he was up against it to know just what to do to return with a deer, but the game warden came to his rescue. Of course this was not at all to his liking, but there were none of the dearest kind of deare to bring in, so he boarded the train containing the carcass of a dear little deer, which some brutal hunter lawless hunter had brought to an untimely death with a deadly charge of lead. But he returned with a deer, believing that is was better to come with an illegal one than with none at all.

Henry Hoover reports a four point buck being killed at the Camp Atwater wigwam, Wednesday.

Many Fair raising tales are being told of encounters hunters are having with the elk which roam the mountains a few miles from Cherry Mabel. Many people discount these stories, but there is evidence aplenty that the bull elk are not as playful as kittens. There is no likelyhood that the bull elk will tackle any man who leaves them alone, but in his habits the bull elk is not unlike the bull of the bovine family, and often when he comes in contact with such a homely specimen as mankind, in general, he throws his head to the ground, snorts, bawls and paws great holes in the ground with his sharp cloven hoofs. So when you see an elk, unless he wears an emblem, let him alone.

ELECTRIC SIGNS MAY BE BANNED IN CLEARFIELD

In conformity with the rules issued by Fire Admiral Jenkins H. A. Gearhold, it is probable that Clearfield will be compelled to cut down on the amount of power and light used. This action is general, but will probably be enforced in Clearfield, despite the fact that the supply of coal here is not so restricted as in other places. It will be remembered by the orders printed in the papers the public utility companies are to curtail the furnishing of current for advertising signs and displays of all kinds. The Fire Admiral is of the opinion that a conflagration is possible that it is necessary that he make and has taken these steps for the conflict.

Strong called at the house of his lawyer at eight o'clock Tuesday evening, and it is believed he planned the murder during the day. Feigning sleep when his wife returned, he is believed to have arisen and chloroformed his victims, as a empty bottle was found in the bath room. He wedded the axe with great force and is believed to have hit each one but with the sharp end of the axe, and the children with the blunt end. The three children will never recovered completely their senses. After Strong believed that the family was all dead he went to the bath room and slashed his throat. MORROW, HEAD OF NATIONAL COAL ASSOCIATION DECLARES IT IS A CONSERVATIVE ESTIMATE

By RALPH S. COUCH
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—More than one million workers are idle or employed part time as the result of the coal shortage, it was estimated officially today. The estimate was described as "extremely conservative" by J. P. A. Morrow, vice President of the National Coal Association. Exact figures are impossible to obtain as in some sections of the country Railroad administration reports show that whole communities are idle.

The wage loss is estimated at more than two million dollars daily. The loss to employers and business men is beyond estimate. Thousands of those affected are women depending for employment on mercantile establishments.

Chicago business places started yesterday on a 6 1-2 hour basis. More than 400,000 are affected in this district.

Railroad workers were affected by the strike according to heads of the four big brotherhoods. Trainmen began to feel the strike through curtailment of the train service, declared W. G. Lee, of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

At Gary, Indiana, thousands of steel workers were laid off.

Missouri coal mines were taken over by the state today by a proclamation of Governor Gardner.

UNION OFFICERS LOOK TO WORKERS FOR GUIDANCE

The contempt proceedings instituted by the government is the lessor of the troubles of the United Mine Worker officials these days. The problem of keeping his ranks intact is bothering the official. Up to this time he has been undecided as to the proper course to pursue.

On the other hand there is the government, backed up by the public, demanding that the official give his sanction to the acceptance of the fourteen per cent. offer. Arrayed with the government and the public is that element among the workers who would go to work in a minute if the officials gave them any encouragement to do so and who are likely to make a break of their own record if things are not adjusted pretty soon.

On the other hand, the official knows that the radical element controls a majority of the votes at the district and national elections and he fears that his acceptance of the government offer or his advice to accept it will be a factor at the next election.

At the recent meeting of officials held in Clearfield, no doubt this very subject was discussed from both angles. Naturally under the federal injunction they could take no official action amounting to rejection of the offer but had they chosen to accept full responsibility they could have taken the initiative in assenting to going to work.

The officers of this organization are just as anxious to please their constituents as any public office holder, perhaps more so, so it remains for the individual miner to let his views be known to his officers. Daily the miner is losing wages. The daily wage loss in this district must amount to at least $200,000. This is his battle and if true democracy reigns in the organization it is for the man to dictate what his officers shall do. The miner has already lost in wages more than his increase will amount to in the next year.

The miner should be loyal to his organization but he should at the same time run his own organization. If he wants to work and is held back by his officers he will in time do the next best thing. Pride will for a time keep him from obeying the impulse to go to work and provide for his family and the desire to act with his fellows, a worthy attribute, will deter him from acting hastily. Later intimidation will be a factor but intimidation will cease when the majority gets to thinking as he does. This morning the DuBois Courier reports that many miners in that region are seeking other occupations. Grim necessity will force this condition and as necessity knows no law or rule there is an ever increasing danger that the ranks of the mine workers will be depleted and the fruits of years of toil, sacrifice and effort endangered. This is the last thing any friends of organized labor wants to happen. Let each mine worker seriously consider this problem, talk it over with his fellows and indicate to his officers his views and his desires.

NOTICE MINISTERS

Saturday issue of The Prgress should carry notices of every church service in the city. The Progress is glad to carry such notices and again extends an invitation to the various churches of Clearfield to use The Progress as a publicity medium to the extent of announcing their Sunday services.

However, in order to do this, it will be necessary to follow certain rules. First, do not telephone your notices to the office. Second, they must be in our hands before nine o'clock Saturday morning or we cannot insert them.

We know that you will understand why we have to make these rules. Our time is all taken up. We want to help though and will furnish the labor of setting the type, the paper and the ink, etc., if you will meet us half way and get us the copy before nine o'clock. Oh, yes, write it out legiby, please, before you hand it in.

The King's business is the only business in Clearveld that we will advertise free. Take advantage of it.

A Freak of Fortune

By RALPH HAMILTON

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

"A penny for your thoughts, Wilbur," spoke pretty Erna Barton, and the somber face of Wilbur Gray, evidencing a mood of profound abstraction, brightened up magically, as it always did when this charming girl was beside him.

"Am I sure of the compensation offered?" challenged the young man lightly.

"There!" and Erna pressed an old battered copper coin into his hand. "Now confess, sir! Not only do I reward you with the conventional penny, but I present what may be a rare coin."

"So rare and old that its inscription is fairly undecipherable," replied Wilbur. "It seems to wear the green and grime of the centuries."

"I found it among a lot of relics of the olden, olden time that poor dear grandfather so cherished," explained Erna. "He also left some old pieces of delftware and ancient firearms.

"I shall keep the coin always, Erna," said Wilbur. "I hope it will be a guardian of good fortune."

"But what about the pay?" inquired Erna, archly. "I bought your thoughts—what were they?"

"Well, Erna," answered Wilbur, his glance softening and replete with sentiment, "I was thinking how dearly I loved you when I came home for the holiday vacation."

Erna's fair golden head dropped, but she drew nearer to him on the porch seat.

"And how much more I love you now," continued Wilbur seriously. "And when I come home next summer I hope I can add to it all by asking you to become my wife."

"I hope so," said Erna spontaneously, lifting her clear, honest eyes to meet his own, "but you must not think of that until your are sure that little Eva and I will not be a burden to you. All grandfather has left us is this little place, and some money is owing on that."

"I hope to be able to clear up everything and more," spoke Wilbur confidently. "Send your sweet, best wishes after me when I go back to work in the city, that I may find some way of earning more money than I do now."

"Be patient, dear," soothed Erna encouragingly. "Our ship is sure to come in some day, and it will be the more precious for the waiting."

Wilbur was employed in a brokerage office. Opportunity came to him through this business connection of making money, but he had no capital to invest. About two weeks after his return to the city a close friend, Paul Warfield, dropped into his room at his boarding house.

"I wish I had a thousand dollars, Wilbur," he said. "I've got a tip that would make me a fortune in a month."

Wilbur smiled incredulously. He had always kept away from tips and speculative propositions generally, and, besides he realized that Warfield was a good deal of a dreamer.

"Don't laugh at me, Wilbur," said Paul. "This is no wild fantasy, but a sure thing."

"Some stock on the boom, eh?"

"Nothing of the sort. It's a sure prospect, with a sound, substantial basis. It's land—land that never decays, never burns up, never wears out. Wall street can't play with it."

"Land with a gold mine on it, I suppose?" intimated Wilbur guzzlingly.

"No, Wilbur, it's an eight-acre strip and last week on the next forty a prospector made a strike. He sealed the well, and is trying to keep his discovery quiet until he can interest some capitalist to buy up all the other land in the vicinity. The very choicest is the piece I have a chance to buy. My old aunt is willing to invest half of the money required. Couldn't you raise the other five hundred in some way, Wilbur?"

"Oh, yes, sure; certainly," decided Wilbur. "See" and he emptied his pocket of the few coins it held. "I might buy a hundredth part of an acre" and just then one of the coins slipped through his careless fingers and rolled against Paul's foot.

The latter picked it up to restore it to its owner. Then with a profound start and a whistle "Hello! Where did you ever get that?" He held close to the light the copper penny Erna Barton had given to Wilbur. He sniffed it, took out a magnifying glass and added: "Say, did you know that you have a treasure?"

"What do you mean?" questioned Wilbur.

"Why, that this is a Connecticut penny of the period of King Stephen, probably one of the rarest coins in the world centuries old. Will you let me take it to an old collector I know? I'll be back in an hour."

The hour was just up when Paul excited and breathless returned. "One of the rare ones, I knew," he fairly shouted. "The collector is a Britisher and I have an offer of six hundred dollars."

"Take it!" cried Wilbur in delight. "And now I've made a fortune for your wonderful speculation."

Wilbur learned next day as Paul had predicted. There was a later division of twenty thousand dollars' profits, and Wilbur Gray went back to his native village to make Erna Barton the happiest girl in the world.

A bee can fly much faster than a bird.

PRESBYTERIAN NEW ERA MOVEMENT FULLY EXPLAINED

Ninety two men of the Presbyterian church of Clearfield gathered around the banquet board in the dining parlor of the church last evening to hear more about the New Era program of the Presbyterian Church of America. The ladies of the church had prepared a sumptous repast, to which all did justice. At the conclusion of the dinner, Dr. E. C. Reeve, the pastor, introduced Dr. Selden Haines, a Princeton classmate of Dr. Reeve, who is in charge of the New Era Movement in this district. For about one hour Dr. Haines spoke clearly and convincingly on the present day situation of the church of Christ in general, and the Presbyterian church in particular, emphasizing the need of old time Christian united service. Stress was laid on organization of the members of the church, rather than upon finances. It is planned to organize a New Era movement within each individual church, in order to carry out the New Era program. The New Era program is a lengthy one and exacting in its demands, nevertheless it is one that is within the reach of every Presbyterian church, if they will but apply the system to themselves. A fuller exposition of the plan will be made in The Progress at a later date.

Be Prepared For Influenza

CUT THIS OUT

Many medical men say we will probably have another epidemic this fall.

It is all hope and pray we will But at the same time let us be well prepared.

The flu as it is called usually starts with a cold and tightness in the chest.

If you even suspect there is a chance that you are getting influenza, take a good dose of laxative tea, such as Dr. Carter's K. and B. Tea or Celery King and send for your physician. While you are waiting for the doctor rub Begy's Mustarine on throat and chest.

Rub it on freely and never mind if it does feel good and hot, it cannot blister even the tenderest skin.

But don't stop at throat and chest: get some one to rub this enemy of inflammation over your entire back and especially between the shoulder blades.

This is one of the most sensible precautions you can take against pneumonia, which often quickly follows the flu and is just what the doctor tries hard to sidetrack.

You can get Begy's Mustarine for 20 and 60 cents in yellow boxes all ready for use at any drug store.

Remember it is made of real yellow mustard. Use it for sore throat, coughs, chest colds, pleurisy, bronchitis, lumbago and all aches and pains.

Glass Of Salts Cleans Kidneys

If your back is aching or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water and eat less meat.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any phammacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinkink, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal when it burns, leaves behind incombustible ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becmes food for the millions of bacterio which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomainelike poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before breakfast each morning drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the bowels the prebious days poisons and toxins, and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure, and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, chis, billiusoness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

LIFT OFF CORNS WITH FINGERS

Few Drops of "Freezone," Then Corns Lift Off—No Pain!

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs so little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon any corn or callus. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callus right off with fingers. Truly!

FARM PRODUCTS SHOW TO BE HELD AT HARRISBURG

Pennsylvania's fourth and greatest Farm Products show will be held in Harrisburg from January 20 to 23, inclusive.

This will bring together farmers and others interested in agricultural pursuits from every part of the state.

The exhibits will consist of the best that the Pennsylvania farm, orchard and garden will produce. There will be on exhibition the latest improved farm machinery and devices for expediting farm work.

Eleven sections of agricultural meetings will be run simultaneously. All phases of farm life will be discussed.

These meetings afford an opportunity to meet farmers, stock raisers, fruit growers and so on from every part of the state. The men that attend these meetings are the wide-awake and practical ones. To meet these fellows and learn something of their methods and success is an inspiration that any farmer can ill afford to miss.

There will be plenty to see and learn that will pay any farmer well to attend these meetings and study the exhibits.

Special arrangements are being made for reduced railroad rates from all points in Pennsylvania to Harrisburg during this period.

PIE SOCIAL

A pie social will be held at the Clover Hill school house Friday, November 5th. Everybody invited. D5-1t

Easy To Darken Your Grey Hair

Try this! Brush Sage Tea and Sulphur Compound Through Your hair, taking one strand at a time

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is a mussy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeths Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning oil gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeths Sage and Sulphur compound.

A Perfect Arm.

The proportions of the perfect arm in a woman of about 5 feet 5 inches are as follows: The circumference of the upper arm should be about 12 inches; that of the fore arm 9 inches and of the wrist 6 inches. The upper arm should be one-third shorter than the forearm.

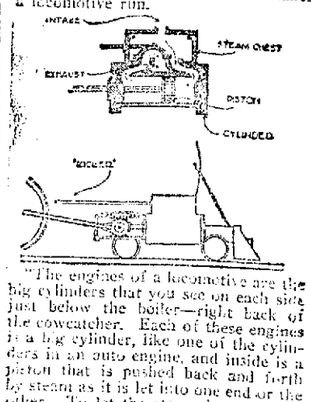
"Kickers" On a Locomotive

BY GRANT M. HYDE

"What are those 'kickers' on the side of the drive wheels of a railroad locomotive, Dad—those rods that kick up and down outside the big, heavy driving rod?"

"They are part of the valve-mechanism that opens and closes the valves to let steam into the cylinders. To understand them, you must know what makes a locomotive run.



"The engines of a locomotive are the big cylinders that you see on each side just below the boiler—right back of the cowcatcher. Each of these engines is a big cylinder, like one of the cylinders in an auto engine, and inside is a piston that is pushed back and forth by steam as it is let into one end or the other. To let the steam into one end and then into the other—back and forth—there is a system of valves just above the cylinder. When the engineer opens the throttle, the steam goes through the valve that is open, and pushes the piston one way; then that valve closes, the other opens, and the steam pushes the piston back.

"A piston rod, working through the end of the cylinder, and the heavy drive rods cause the big drive wheels to turn as the piston is pushed back and forth. The two engines on each side of the locomotive work together because the drive wheels are fastened solidly to their axles and one cannot turn without the other. The escaping steam puffs out through the smokestack and you can picture the moving pistons by counting the puffs—four puffs for each time the wheels go around since each of the two engines puffs twice to turn the wheels once—and they do not work together.

"On old-fashioned engines you could not see the rods that opened and closed the steam valves for they were underneath out of sight. A new system of valve mechanism, adopted about a dozen years ago, consists of rods fastened to the outside of the driving wheels, and these are the 'kickers' that you see moving up and down.

"If it is about 20 feet around a locomotive drive wheel and that much distance is covered during four puffs, can you figure the number puffs per mile?"

Sunrise.

She struggled to a certain hilltop and saw before her the silent inflooding of the day. Out of the east it welled and whitened; the darkness trembled into light; and the stars were extinguished like the street lamps of a human city. The whiteness brightened into silver, the silver warmed to gold, the gold kindled into pure and living fire; and the face of the east was barred with elemental scarlet.—R. L. Stevenson.

Around the Garage

BY J. H. MILLAR

"We don't want any boys around my garage," growled Mr. Tompkins of the Standard Motor Company. "They are just as likely as not to run one of the cars away or take off half the engine to see what the other half looks like."

"What boy did you say did that?" inquired Mr. Peyton as he stepped into his seven-passenger machine.

"None, we never gave one a chance."

Perhaps Mr. Tompkins was right and again perhaps he wasn't. Nevertheless, there are a whole lot of boys—the boys that will someday be the engineers and managers of the country's industries—who know much more about engines, mechanics, and motors, than the very men who own and drive the cars. Such boys are the ones who should look for work "Around the Garage."

Different Things to Do

It may be a business of washing regularly the machines in the different private garages of the neighborhood; it may be keeping the garages in order; it may be tending to the gasoline, oil and spare parts; there is plenty to be done. Such jobs make a boy a friend of a car so that before long he becomes competent to make minor repairs and has gradually learn about the motor.

What One Fellow Did

Mr. Peyton, the man who was not skeptical about boys, had tried one. Harry Jackson lived on a side street a few blocks back from the Peyton residence. Two summers before, when on warm evenings Mr. Peyton would be tinkering around the garage, Harry could saunter up the alley and stand with his hands in his pockets watching. After a while he became better acquainted. He helped wash or dust the machine, fill the radiator, and do other odd jobs just for the fun of it.

The next summer Harry was employed as handy man. After school started he still kept the job. He had to keep it, because he had become such a valuable help that Mr. Peyton couldn't do without him. He saved many dollars in garage bills.

These frosty days are days when there is much to do around a garage. Look for it!

TO AVOID GRIPPE AND INFLUENZA

What To Do To Protect Yourself

Keep out of crowds.

Avoid people who have colds.

Don't get excited when you do catch cold. Neglected colds run into pneumonia. Take care of them.

Eat and drink moderately.

Keep the atmosphere in living rooms, fresh, clean and cool.

INFLUENZA IS PREVENTABLE IT IS ALSO CONTAGIOUS

therefore keep the mouth and throat clean by maintaining as nearly as possible a healthy condition of the mucous membranes.

Your doctor will tell you that for years he has prescribed and used for this purpose a gargle of warm MU-COL solution each night and morning.

This solution is easily and quickly made, economical, too. Simply go to your druggist and say, "I want a package of MU-COL." Dissolve half a teaspoonful in a teacupful of warm water. It is then ready to use.

For 20 years MU-COL was advertised exclusively to Physicians. Today any druggist can supply you.

CHICAGO A GENERAL FAVORITE FOR REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec 4—The time and place of the Republican national convention will be fixed at the meeting of the Republican National committee to be held here next Wednesday. San Francisco, Minneapolis, and St. Louis are among the cities contesting for the honor of being the host of the convention. A preliminary canvass of the committee, however shows a strong preference for Chicago, where the convention has met many times in the past, where ample hotel accommodations are to be had and where, on account of its central location, delegates from all parts of the country find that it is the most acceptable for convention purposes.

It has been customary for the Republicans to fix the time and place of their convention without regard to the action of the Democrats. And with regards to the coming gathering there will be no exception to the rule, for the Democrats will not make their choice until a month after the Republicans have decided upon the time and place for holding their convention.

The Republicans have held sixteen national convention, and half of these have been held in Chicago. The Windy City has been the scene of the last four. Of the Democratic national conventions four have been held in Chicago.

Although a strong favorite as a convention city Chicago cannot be said to have brought luck to the candidates nominated there. Of the Republican candidates nominated in Chicago, Lincoln and Garfield were assassinated, Blaine died a disappointed if not a heartbroken man, and Taft was defeated for his second term.

Sentimentally, however, it is regarded as eminently fitting that Chicago should be the meeting place of the Republican national conventions, for it was within a stone's throw of the Western metropolis that the party was given birth, in 1854. And it was in Chicago that the Republicans named their first successful national ticket, with Abraham Lincoln as the standard bearer.

Politics had much to do with the selection of Chicago as the convention city in 1860. At that time the city could lay no claim to pre-eminence on account of its size, as it stood only ninth on the roll of the country's cities in population. Not only was New York the only city which now leads it, ahead of it sixty years ago, but Philadelphia Brooklyn, St. Louis, Boston, Baltimore, New Orleans and Cincinnati stood higher in the scale.

But Illinois, which had been Democratic from the beginning along to that time in presidential canvasses, was deemed to be necessary for the Republicans if they were to win, and, moreover, that State had a very prominent aspirant for the nomination, Lincoln who as it turned out, carried the convention. The result of the election, however, showed that the Republicans had figured wisely when they had put Illinois in the list of doubtful states. Even with the general prevalence of Republican influences throughout the north in that year, Illinois' favorite son, Lincoln, carried the state by only 12,000 as against its other illustrious son, Douglas.

Politics is not likely to cut much figure in the selection of the Republican convention city for next year. If Chicago is chosen, as now appears to be most probable it will be because the average Republican delegate likes Chicago for a June convention, because it is cool because it is big enough to breath in, because it is at the center of things and because he doesn't have to sleep with his boots out of the window.

PRESIDENT ASKS LAWS TO SOLVE MANY PROBLEMS

Urges Extensive Program of Reconstruction in Message to Congress

Washington. — President Wilson's message to the Sixty-sixth Congress was as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I sincerely regret that I cannot be present at the opening of this session of the Congress. I am thus prevented from presenting, in as direct a way as I could wish, the many questions that are pressing for solution at this time. Happily, I have had the advantage of the advice of the heads of the several executive departments who have kept in close touch with affairs in their detail and whose thoughful recommendations I earnest second.

Rail Question Delayed.

In the matter of the railroads and the readjustment of their affairs growing out of Federal control, I shall take the liberty at a later date of addressing you.

I hope that Congress will bring to a conclusion at this session legislation looking to the establishment of a budget system. That there should be one single authority responsible for the making of all appropriations, and that appropriations should be made, not independently of each other, but with reference to one single comprehensive plan of expenditure properly related to the Nation's income, there can be no doubt. I believe the burden of preparing the budget must, in the nature of the case, if th work is to be properly done and responsibility concentrated instead of divided, rest upon the executive.

The budget so prepared should be submitted to and approved and amended by a single committee of each house of Congress, and no single appropriation should be made by the Congress, except such as may have been included in the budget prepared by the executive or added by the particular committee of Congress charged with the budget legislation.

Another and not less important aspect of the problem is the ascertainment with which the moneys appropriated are expended. Under existing law the only audit is for the purpose of ascertaining whether expenditures have been lawfully made within the appropriation. No one is authorized or equipped to ascertain whether the money has been spent wisely, economically and effectively. The auditors should be highly trained officers with permanent tenure in the treasury department, free of obligations to or motives of consideration for this or any subsequent administration and authorized and empowered to examine into and make report upon the methods employed and the results obtained by the executive departments of the Government. Their reports should be made to the Congress and to the secretary of the treasury.

Tax Question Urgent.

I trust that the Congress will give its immediate consideration to the problem of future taxation. Simplification of the income and profits taxes has become an immediate necessity. These taxes performed indispensable service during the war. They must, however, be simplified, not only to save the taxpayer inconvenience and expense, but in order that his liability may be made certain and definite.

With reference to the details of the revenue law, the secretary of the treasury and the commissioner of internal revenue will lay before you for your consideration certain amendments necessary or desirable in connection with the administration of the law—recommendations which have my approval and support. It is of the utmost importance that in dealing with this matter the present law should not be disturbed so far as regards taxes for the calendar year, 1920, payable in the calendar year 1921.

The congress might well consider whether the higher rates of income and profits taxes can in peace times be effectively productive of revenue, and whether they may not, on the contrary, be destructive of business activity and productive of waste and inefficiency. There is a point at which in peace times high rates of income and profits taxes discourage energy, remove the incentive to new enterprise, encourage extravagant expenditures and produce industrial stagnation with consequent unemployment and other attendant evils.

Difficult Problem.

The problem is not an easy one. A fundamental change has taken place with reference to the position of America in the world's affairs. The prejudice and passions engendered by decades of controversy between two schools of political and economic thought—the one believers in protection of American industries, the other believers in tariff for revenue only—must be subordinated to the single consideration of the public interest in the light of utterly changed conditions. Before the war America was heavily the debtor of the rest of the world and the interest payments she had to make to foreign countries on American securities held abroad, the expenditures of American travelers abroad and the ocean freight charges she had to pay to others, about balanced the value of her pre-war favorable balance of trade.

During the war America's exports have been greatly stimulated, and increased prices have increased their value. On the other hand, she has purchased a large proportion of the American securities previously held abroad, has loaned some $9,000,000,000 to foreign governments, and has built her own ships.

Our favorable balance of trade has thus been greatly increased, and Europe has been deprived of the means of meeting it heretofore existing. Europe can have only three ways of meeting the favorable balance of trade in peace times: By imports into this country of gold or of goods, or by establishing new credits. Europe is in no position at the present time to ship gold to us, nor could we contemplate large further imports of gold into this country without concern. The time has nearly passed for international governmental loans, and it will take time to develop in this country a market for foreign securities. Anything, therefore, which would tend to prevent foreign countries from settling for our exports by shipments of goods into this country would only have the effect of preventing them from paying for our exports, and therefore of preventing the exports from being made.

Trade Needs Outlet.

The productivity of the country greatly stimulated by the war must find an outlet by exports to foreign countries and any measures taken to prevent imports is inevitably restrict exports, force curtailment of production, load the business machinery of the country with credits to carry unsold products and produce industrial stagnation and unemployment. If we want to sell we must be prepared to buy. Whatever else may have been our [illegible] period of [illegible] we cannot now [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] business, if we will but take advantage of the opportunities that are ours for the asking. The recent war has ended our isolation and thrown upon us a great duty and responsibility.

PRESIDENT ASKS LAWS TO SOLVE MANY PROBLEMS

The United States must share the expanding world market. The United States desires for itself only equal opportunity with the other nations of the world, and that through the process of friendly co-operation and fair competition the legitimate interests of the nations concerned may be successfully and equitably adjusted.

There are other matters of importance upon which I urged action at the last session of Congress which are still pressing for solution. I am sure it is not necessary for me again to remind you that there is one immediate and very practicable question resulting from the war which we should meet in the most liberal spirit. It is a matter of recognition and relief to our soldiers. I can do no better than to quote from my last message urging this very action:

Needs of Veterans.

"We must see to it that our soldiers are assisted in every practical way to find places for which they are fitted in the daily work of the country. This can be done by developing and maintaining upon an adequate scale the admirable organization created by the department of labor for placing men seeking work, and it can also be done, in at least one very great field, by creating new opportunities for individual enterprise. The secretary of the interior has pointed out the way by which returning soldiers may be helped to find and take up land in the hitherto undeveloped regions of the country the Federal government has already prepared or can readily prepare for cultivation and also on many of the cut over or neglected areas which lie within the limits of the older states; and I once more take the liberty of recommending very earnestly that his plans shall receive the immediate and substantial support of Congress."

In the matter of [illegible] I [illegible] to call your attention to the recommendations contained in my last message urging legislation with respect to the establishment of the chemical dyestuffs industry in America.

"Among the industries to which special consideration should be given is that of the manufacture of dyestuffs and related chemicals. Our former dependence upon German sources for the war made the [illegible] trade a cause of great [illegible] disturbance. The close relation between the manufacture of dyestuffs on the one hand, and of explosives and poisonous gases, on the other, moreover, has given the industry an exceptional significance and value. Although the United States will gladly and unhesitatingly join in the program of international disarmament; it will, nevertheless, be a policy of obvious prudence to make certain of the successful maintenance of many strong and well equipped chemical plants. The German chemical industry, with which we will be brought into competition, was and may well be again, a thoroughly knit monopoly, capable of exercising a competition of a peculiarly insidious and dangerous kind."

Farmers' Work in War.

During the war the farmer performed a vital and willing service to the Nation. By materially increasing the production of his land, he supplied America and the allies with the increased amounts of food necessary to keep their immense armies in the field. He indispensably helped to win the war. But there is now scarcely less need for increasing the production of food and the necessaries of life. I ask the Congress to consider means of encouraging effort along these lines. The importance of doing everything possible to promote production along economical lines, to improve marketing and to make rural life more attractive and healthful is obvious.

I would urge approval of the plans already proposed to the Congress by the secretary of agriculture, to secure the essential facts required for the proper study of this question, through the proposed enlarged programs for farm management studies and crop estimates. I would urge also, a continuance of Federal participation in the building of good roads, under the terms of existing law and under the direction of present agencies; the need of further action on the part of the states and the Federal Government to preserve and develop our forest resources, especially through the practice of better forestry methods on private holdings and the extension of the publicly owned forests; better support for county schools and the more definite directing of their courses of study along lines related to rural problems; and full provision for sanitation in rural districts and the building up of adequate hospital and medical facilities in these localities.

Perhaps the way could be cleared for many of these desirable reforms by a fresh comprehensive survey made of rural conditions by a commission composed of representatives of the farmers and of the agricultural agencies responsible for leadership.

Remedies for Unrest.

I would call your attention to the widespread condition of political restlessness in our body politic. The causes of this unrest, while various and complicated, are superficial rather than deep seated. Broadly, they arise from or are connected with the failure on the part of our Government to arrive speedily at a just and permanent peace, permitting return to normal conditions, from the transfusion of radical theories from seething European centers, pending such delay, from heartless profiteering resulting in the increase in the cost of living, and, lastly, from the machinations of passionate and malevolent agitators. With the return to normal conditions this unrest will rapidly disappear. In the meantime it does much evil. It seems to me that in dealing with this situation Congress should not be impatient or drastic, but should seek rather to remove the causes.

It should endeavor to bring our country back speedily to a peace basis with ameliorated living conditions under minimum of restrictions upon personal liberty that is consistent with our reconstruction problems. And it should arm the Federal Government with power to deal in its criminal courts with those persons who by violent methods would abrogate our time-tested institutions.

With the free expression of opinion and with the advocacy of orderly political change, however fundamental, there must be no interference, but toward passion and malevolence tending to incite crime and insurrection, under guise of political evolution, there should be no leniency. Legislation to this end has been recommended by the attorney general and should be enacted. In this direct connection I would call your attention to my recommendations on August 8, pointing out legislative measures which would be effective in controlling and bringing down the present cost of living, which contributes so largely to this unrest. If the Government's campaign is to be effective, it is necessary that the other steps suggested should be acted on at once.

Food Control Urged

I renew and strongly urge the necessity of the extension of the present food control act to the period of time in which it shall remain in operation. The attorney general has submitted a bill providing for an extension of this act for a period of six months. As it now stands it is limited in operation to the period of the war and becomes inoperative until the formal proclamation of peace. It is imperative that it should be extended at once. The department of justice has built up extensive machinery for the purpose of enforcing its provisions; all of which must be abandoned upon the conclusion of peace unless the provisions of this act are extended.

During this period the Congress will have an opportunity to make similar permanent provisions and regulations with regard to all goods destined for interstate commerce and to exclude them from interstate shipment, if the requirements of the law are not complied with. Some such regulation is imperatively necessary. The abuses that have grown up in the manipulation of prices by the withholding of foodstuffs and other necessities of life cannot otherwise be effectively prevented. There can be no doubt of either the necessity or the legitimacy of such measures.

As I pointed out in my last message, publicity can accomplish a great deal in this campaign. The ablest of our Government must be clearly brought to the attention of the controlling public civic organization and state officials, who are in a position to lend their assistance to our efforts. You have made available funds with which to carry on this campaign, but there is no provision in the law authorizing the expenditure for the purpose of making the public fully informed about the efforts of the Government. Specific recommendation has been made by the attorney general in this regard. I would strongly urge upon its immediate adoption, as it constitutes one of the preliminary steps to this campaign.

I also renew my recommendation that the Congress pass a law regulating cold storage, as it is regulated, for example by the state of New Jersey which limits the time during which goods may be held in storage, prescribes the method of disposing of them, if kept beyond the permitted period, and requires that goods released from storage shall in all cases bear the date of their receipt. It would materially add to the practicability of the law, for the purpose we now have in view, if it were also prescribed that all goods released from storage for interstate shipment should have plainly marked upon each package the actual or market price at which they went into storage. By this means the purchaser would always be able to learn what profits stood between him and the producer or the wholesale dealer.

Wheels Prices Marked.

I would also renew my recommendation that all goods destined for interstate commerce should in every case, where they form an appreciable part of the bill, be plainly marked with the price at which they left the hands of the producer.

We should formulate a law requiring a Federal license of all corporations engaged in interstate commerce and embodying in the license, as in the condition under which it is to be issued, specific regulations designed to secure competitive selling and prevent unconscionable profits in the method of marketing.

Such a law would afford a welcome opportunity to effect other much needed reforms in the business of interstate shipment and in the methods of corporations which are engaged in it; but for the moment I confine my recommendations to the object immediately in hand, which is to lower the cost of living.

No one who has observed the march of events in the last year can fail to note the absolute need of a definite program to bring about an improvement in the conditions of labor. There can be no settled conditions leading to increased production and a reduction in the cost of living if labor and capital are to be antagonists instead of partners.

Evils of Repression.

Sound thinking and an honest desire to serve the interests of the whole Nation, as distinguished from the interests of a class, must be applied to the solution of this great and pressing problem. The failure of other nations to consider this matter in a vigorous way has produced bitterness and jealousies and antagonisms, the food of radicalism.

The only way to keep men from agitating against grievances is to remove the grievances. An unwillingness even to discuss these matters produces only dissatisfaction and gives comfort to the extreme elements in our country, which endeavor to stir disturbances in order to provoke governments to embark upon a course of retaliation and repression.

The seed of revolution is repression. The remedy for these things must not be negative in character. It must be constructive. It must comprehend the general interest. The real antidote for the unrest which manifests itself is not suppression, but a deep consideration of the wrongs that beset our National life and the application of a remedy.

Indiana, Pennsylvania

The Estate of

Rev. J. Day Brownlee, D.

Will sell at auction seventeen building lots in the Second Ward, on Locust Street between Fourth and Fifth streets, Indiana, Pa.

Sale held in the dining room of the Indiana House, Philadelphia and Sixth Streets at Three O'clock, P. M., Saturday, December 6, 1919.

Lots are good size all except one, have alley in rear, all have 8 inch sanitary sewer, natural gas, city electric lights, water and bell phones.

Title perfect. Good neighborhood. Natural drainage.

One block to graded school and high school. Two and one-half blocks to trolley. Four blocks to Normal school. Five blocks to Court House. Eight churches and post office within five blocks.

Indiana is a substantial town. Growing rapidly. Witness the recent headquarters being erected by the Rochester and Pittsburgh Steel & Iron Co., costing four hundred thousand dollars, also Clearfield Bituminous Coal Co. costing eighty thousand dollars, also the new theatre to cost one hundred thousand dollars. Also the one hundred thousand dollar new school building.

Where can one find a better, cleaner, more wholesome or healthier place to live and rear your children? Or where can one find a better place to live when you retire from active business? One barber shop in Indiana on Saturday two years ago shaved six men whose average age was seventy-seven years and ten months. They are living yet.

Indiana is free from fog, smoke and cinders. Has low tax rate, valuation is only $2,369,542.00.

The Normal school not only trains teachers, but has a business course and a college preparatory department for both sexes. Also a preparatory for youngsters.

Indiana is only one-half the size it soon will be, and is only the size it ought to be considering its natural surrounding advantages. Has largest coal reserves in the state, mines well equipped with modern switches and men who know how to mine, and market coal; shipping facilities; possibilities of gas; good local markets for the farmer.

Houses and building lots are abnormally scarce.

You look back with regret twenty years to what you could have bought in your town at low prices. Indiana now offers you a similar opportunity.

Buy land to build or for investment or speculation.

Lots are surveyed and staked and may be seen at any time.

Blue prints may be had from Arthur Brownlee, 528 Church Street, Indiana, Penna.

REMEMBER the Date, Saturday, December 6th; the Time, Three o'clock P. M., the place, Indiana House, opposite Court House.

Easy on your feet — extra thickness where the wear comes

TIMBERING a working place, boring, blasting, "topping up" cars for hours at a stretch—the hardest work you do is made twice as hard if your rubber shoes go bad.

It's cold, wet feet if they leak—blisters and sores if they don't fit.

Made on a good comfortable last, absolutely water-tight—that's the new U. S. Bootee, made especially for miners. Get a pair of them before you start work tomorrow.

Every pair is backed up with extra thicknesses of pure rubber and good strong fabric where the wear is hardest.

Every pair is made with plenty of room at the toes and shaped so as not to rub up and down at the heel.

Go to the store and see for yourself the U. S. Bootee for miners—the high with six eyelets, the low with four. Ask for U. S. Rubber footwear—it means solid wear and long service for your money.

FOR FARMERS, TOO

Built especially to stand up under hard use in mines—the hardest possible kind of wear—the U. S. Bootee and the U. S. Boot are now being adopted by farmers everywhere who know the value of sturdy, comfortable rubber footwear.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and pale instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 25c.

PRESIDENT ASKS LAWS TO SOLVE MANY PROBLEMS

trial wrongs by establishing the eight-hour day as the standard in every field of labor. It has sought to find a way to prevent child labor. It has served the whole country by leading the way in developing the means of preserving and safeguarding lives and health in dangerous industries.

It must now help in the difficult task of finding a method that will bring about a genuine democratization of industry, based upon the full recognition of the right of those who work in whatever rank, to participate in some organic way in every decision which directly affects their welfare. It is with this purpose in mind that I called a conference to meet in Washington on December 1, to consider these problems in all their broad aspects, with the idea of bringing about a better understanding between these two units.

The great unrest throughout the world, out of which has emerged a demand for an immediate consideration of the difficulties between capital and labor, bids us put our own house in order

Labor in Revolt.

Frankly, there can be no permanent and lasting settlement between capital and labor which does not recognize the fundamental concepts for which labor has been struggling through the years. The whole world gave its recognition and endorsement of these fundamental purposes in the League of Nations. The statesmen gathered at Versailles recognized the fact that world stability could not be had by reverting to industrial standards and conditions against which the average workman of the world had revolted. It is, therefore, the task of the statesmen of this new day of change and readjustment to recognize world conditions and to seek to bring about, through legislation, conditions that will mean the ending of age-long antagonism between capital and labor, and that will hopefully lead to the building up of a comradeship which will result not only in greater contentment among the mass of workmen but also bring about a greater production and a greater prosperity to business itself.

To analyze the particulars in the demands of labor is to admit the justice of their complaint in many matters that lie at their basis. The workman demands an adequate wage, sufficient to permit him to live in comfort, unhampered by the fear of poverty and want in his old age. He demands the right to live and the right to work amid sanitary surroundings, both in home and in workshop, surroundings that develop and do not retard his own health and well-being, and the right to provide for his children's wants in the matter of health and education. In other words, it is his desire to make the conditions of his life and the lives of those dear to him tolerable and easy to bear.

Cites Nations League.

The establishment of the principles regarding labor laid down in the covenan of the League of Nations offers us the way of industrial peace and conciliation. No other road lies open to us. Not to pursue this one is longer to invite enmities, bitterness and antagonisms which in the end only lead to industrial and social disaster. The unwilling worker is not a profitable servant. An employe whose industrial life is hedged about by hard and unjust conditions, which he did not create and over which he has no control, lacks that fine spirit of enthusiasm and volunteer effort which are the necessary ingredients of a great producing entity.

Let us be frank about this solemn matter. The evidences of world-wide unrest which manifest themselves throughout the world bid us pause and consider the means to be found to stop the spread of this contagious thing before it saps the very vitality of the Nation itself. Do we gain strength by withholding the remedy? Or is it not the business of the statesman to treat human maladies with that which meets on every hand as evidences of an economic disorder and to apply constructive remedies wherever necessary, being sure that, in the application of the remedy, we touch not the vital tissues of our industrial and economic life? There can be no recession of the tide of unrest until constructive instrumentalities are set up to stem that tide.

Collective Bargaining

Governments must recognize the right of men collectively to bargain collectively. Human objects that have at their base the mutual protection and welfare of those engaged in all industries. Labor must not be longer treated as a commodity. It must be regarded as the activity of human beings, possessed of deep yearnings and desires. The business man gives his best thought to the repair and replenishment of his machinery, so that its usefulness will not be impaired and its power to produce may always be at its height and kept in full vigor and motion. No less regard ought to be paid to the human machine, which after all propels the machinery of the world and is the great dynamic force that lies back of all industry and progress. Return to the old standards of wage and industry in employment are unthinkable. The terrible tragedy of war which has just ended and which has brought the world to the verge of chaos and disaster would be in vain if there should ensue a return to the conditions of the past. Europe itself, whence has come the unrest which now holds the world at bay, is an example of standpatism in these vital human matters which America might well accept as an example, not to be followed but studiously to be avoided. Europe made labor the differential, and the price of it all is enmity and antagonism and prostrated industry. The right of labor to live in peace and comfort must be recognized by governments and America should be the first to lay the foundation stones upon which industrial peace shall be built.

Labor not only is entitled to an adequate wage, but capital should receive a reasonable return upon its investment and is entitled to protection at the hands of the Government in every emergency. No government worthy of the name can "play" these elements against each other, for there is a mutuality of interest between them which the Government must seek to express and to safeguard at all cost.

Right to Strike.

The right of individuals to strike is inviolate and ought not to be interfered with by a process of Government, but there is a predominant right and that is the right of the Government to protect all of its people and to assert its power and majesty against the challenge of any class. The Government, when it asserts that right, seeks not to antagonize a class but simply to defend the right of the whole people as against the irreparable harm and injury that might be done by the attempt by any class to usurp a power that only Government itself has a right to exercise as a protection to all.

In the matter of international disputes which have led to war, statesmen have sought to set up as a remedy arbitration for war. Does this not point the way for the settlement of industrial disputes by the establishment of a tribunal fair and just alike to all, which will settle industrial disputes which in the past have led to war and disaster? America witnessing the evil consequences which have followed out of such disputes between the contending forces must not admit itself impotent to deal with these matters by means of peaceful processes. Surely, there must be some method of bringing together in a council of peace and amity these two great interests, out of which will come a happier day of peace and cooperation, a day that will make for more comfort and happiness in living and a more tolerable condition among all classes of men. Certainly human intelligence can devise some acceptable tribunal for adjusting the differences between capital and labor.

Nation's Hour of Trial.

This is the hour of test and trial for America. By her prowess and strength, and the indomitable courage of her soldiers she demonstrated her power to vindicate on foreign battle fields her conception of liberty and justice. Let no influence as a mediator between capital and labor be weakened and her own failure to settle matters of purely domestic concern be proclaimed to the world. There are those in this country who threaten direct action to force their will upon a majority. Russia today, with its blood and terror, is a painful object lesson of the power of minorities. It makes little difference what minority it is; whether capital or labor, or any other class; no sort of privilege will ever be permitted to dominate this country. We are a partnership or nothing that is worth while. We are a democracy where the majority are the master, or all the hopes and purposes of the men who formed this Government have been defeated and forgotten.

In America there is but one way in which reforms can be achieved and the relief sought by classes obtained, and that is through the orderly processes of representative government. Those who would propose any other method of reform are enemies of this country. America will not be daunted by them nor lose her composure or calmness in these distressing times. We can afford in the midst of this day of passion and unrest, to be self-contained and sure. The instrument of all reform in America is the straight road of justice to all classes and conditions of men. Men have but to follow this road to realize the full fruition of their objects and purposes. Let those beware who would take the shorter road of disorder and revolution. The right road is the road of justice and orderly process.

I saw it in The Progress.
